recent collection rates and other statistics.

Before You Visit a Depot

- Confirm hours of operation at your local depot.
- Empty and rinse containers, especially milk containers.
- Leave tabs, labels, and lids on containers.
- If you pre-count your containers, it can help to make the process faster as depots confirm the count.
- Call ahead if you have a large volume of containers to return.

What Your Depot Can Do for You

- Commercial pickups for businesses that have a large volume of beverage containers (check with your local depot to see if they or a charitable partner offer a commercial pickup service).
- Help set up a donation program or bottle drive.
- May be able to provide recycling bins, door knockers, and additional support for bottle drives and other collection events.

Out-of-Province and Unregistered Containers

All depots are prohibited from accepting or providing a refund for:

- Beverage containers purchased outside of Alberta.
- Beverage containers not registered in Alberta.

Fines of up to $50,000 (for an individual) or $500,000 (for a corporation) can be issued for accepting or providing refunds for these containers.

Non-Refundable Containers

Some containers look similar to refundable beverage containers but are NOT regulated under the Beverage Container Recycling Regulation and therefore, not part of the deposit refund program. This means a depot cannot pay a refund for them. This includes, but is not limited to, containers for products like soup, broth, cooking oil, yogurt, some alcoholic shots, mini creamers, and concentrates.

Examples of ineligible containers

soup

broth

cooking oil

yogurt

canned fruit

liquid eggs

creamer

flavoured syrup
cocktail mix

juice concentrate

What happens to recycled containers?

Recycled beverage containers are used in the manufacture of many commercially useful products:

Depot Standards

The BCMB regulates all depots in Alberta. Depots have rules they must follow when collecting beverage containers and that includes providing accurate refunds. Regular audits and compliance programs ensure depots are meeting operating standards set by the BCMB. If you have a concern about a depot or the service provided, please visit our feedback page.

Applaud a Depot

We would love to hear about the amazing service you experience at your local depot.
