

Attention: Manager/Owner of an Alberta Retail Location

RE: Registration of Beverage Containers and advertising of refund deposit values, in accordance with the Beverage Container Recycling Regulation. Applicable to all Alberta Retailers that sell ready to serve and sealed beverage containers.

To whom it may concern:

The Beverage Container Management Board (BCMB) is a Delegated Administrative Organization (DAO) - an arm's length organization that has delegated government authority under the Ministry of Environment and Protected Areas, responsible for regulating Alberta's beverage container recycling system. The BCMB leads the development of policy and programs that enable and ensure the recycling of beverage containers in Alberta.

The BCMB has enhanced its focus on retail compliance with a new retail inspection program. Audits of retail locations are conducted across Alberta by third-party auditors – One Stop Shoppers (OSS). The program has been introduced to ensure that: 1) all beverage containers being sold and/or distributed in Alberta are registered with the BCMB; and 2) beverage container deposits are advertised and applied correctly at the point of sale. For more information, please review the BCMB's Manufacturer and Retailer By-law. Additionally, the Advertising of Deposit Policy outlines how retailers must advertise the beverage container deposit within their retail location.

Compliance by retailers is crucial to the integrity of the beverage container recycling system in Alberta and is a regulatory obligation under the Beverage Container Recycling Regulation (BCRR). Any manufacturer, distributor or retailer that imports or produces a sealed beverage for sale in Alberta, must register the container with the BCMB and work with a manufacturer agent to have that container collected through Alberta's depot system. This also requires regular reporting (sales volumes) and remitting (beverage container deposit and the Container Recycling Fee) to that agent to fund the recycling of that container and to protect Alberta's environment.

A retailer is defined in the BCRR as a person who sells beverage containers to consumers. Retailers can also be deemed a manufacturer if they:

- carry on the business of filling containers with a beverage, and
- import a beverage in a container into Alberta for the purpose of distribution or sale in Alberta.

An audit is considered non-compliant if unregistered beverage containers are found in the retail location and/or the retail location is found not clearly identifying the deposit amount for containers, separate from the price of the product, where beverage containers are being sold.

In the case of Container Registration non-compliance, the manufacturer will receive a communication 1 (education period) of the Container Registration Compliance Framework and would exit the Framework once compliant or move to Level 1 after 30 days.

If non-compliant after 30 days in communication 1, the manufacturer enters Level 1 of the Container Registration Compliance Framework. The manufacturer would exit the Framework once compliant or move to Level 2 after 30 days.

If non-compliant after 30 days at Level 1, the manufacturer enters Level 2 of the Container Registration Compliance Framework and is issued a $400 non-compliance fee. The manufacturer would exit the Framework once compliant or move to Level 3 after 30 days.

If non-compliant after 30 days at Level 2, the manufacturer enters Level 3 of the Container Registration Compliance Framework and is issued a $400 non-compliance fee. The manufacturer would exit the Framework once compliant or may be referred to the Complaints Director for further action after 15 days.

In the case of Deposit Advertising non-compliance, the retailer will receive communications from the BCMB advising of non-compliance, educating on the requirement to advertise the deposit to public and outlining how to become compliant. A non-compliant retailer can submit images to the BCMB to verify that they are clearly identifying the deposit amount for containers, separate from the price of the product within their retail location. To avoid action resulting from non-compliance, the BCMB encourages retailers and manufacturers to review the container registration requirements and the deposit advertising policy and guidelines.

Manufacturers, distributors, and retailers can be penalized for selling and/or distributing non-system beverage containers. Failure to register beverage containers can result in fines up to $500,000 for a corporation or up to $50,000 for an individual as issued by Alberta Environment and Protected Areas.

As a retailer, below are things you can do to ensure compliance going forward:

- Clearly identify the amount of the beverage container deposit ($0.10 for containers 1L and under and $0.25 for containers over 1L) separate from the price of the product at the location where the beverage containers are located within your store. This includes all vending machines that dispense beverage containers;
- Ask manufacturers/distributors for Alberta Registration Numbers on all beverage containers prior to selling and/or distributing;
- Refuse to sell and/or distribute beverage containers without Alberta Registration Numbers;

What is the Container Recycling Fee (CRF)?	The container recycling fee (CRF) is the amount beverage manufacturers are required to pay to cover the net cost of recovering and processing a used, non-refillable beverage container. CRFs are administered by the Alberta Beverage Container Recycling Corporation (ABCRC) and are used in their entirety to operate an effective and sustainable collection and recycling system for the benefit of all Albertans. Decisions by manufacturers to pass on the container recycling fee to retailers and by retailers to pass it to consumers are made independently. Some retailers choose to pass the fee on and show it on the receipt, while other retailers include it in the price of the product. The CRF amount applied to each beverage purchased in Alberta depends on the material the container is made from and the size of the container. CRFs are monitored on a regular basis and updated annually (usually coming into effect on February 1st each year). See the CRF Brochure on ABCRC's website for more information.
